The crisis in Gaza – harming two million Palestinians – is worsening by the day. The mainstream British media carries little news of it, and social media too often plays to prejudices. In this seminar, British and Middle East experts will explore with the audience how the national and Scots media, and our elected representatives, can address this desperate challenge to humanity.

Chair: Andrew Whitley former BBC and Financial Times foreign correspondent

Speakers:

Sarah Helm former Middle East correspondent, The Independent

Don Macintyre journalist, author of Gaza, Preparing for Dawn

Greg Philo Professor of Communications and Social Change, University of Glasgow

Ilan Baruch Israeli Ambassador to South Africa (retired)

Sir Vincent Fean British Consul-General, Jerusalem 2010-14

Book through Eventbrite. No charge.
